

Research Note

Real Estate Monthly

- We are initiating the Al Mal Dubai Real Estate Price Index. This index is a price survey looking at median price per square foot and rental yields for both the commercial and residential sectors in Dubai. We will release the results of our survey on a monthly basis.
- Our survey indicates that median residential prices increased 2.7% month over month to AED 1,656/sq.ft. and median commercial prices increased 1.8% month over month to AED 1,854/sq.ft. Rental yields declined for both residential and commercial units to 7.3% and 13.5%, respectively. However, rental costs were roughly flat in both segments.
- We are upgrading Sorouh Properties from a Market Perform to Outperform. We are maintaining our target price of AED 11.92. As the stock has sold off approximately 17% since our initiation, the upside to our target price of 30% should represent a good entry point for investors.
- We are also upgrading RAK Properties from an Underperform to Market Perform. Recent weakness has brought the valuation down to more attractive levels. At current levels there is roughly 13.5% upside to our target price of AED 2.54.
- We reiterate our Outperform ratings on Union Properties and Emaar. Though both have performed relatively well during the recent market correction (-1.1% and -5.8% respectively), the upside remains very attractive for both companies. With approximately 50% upside to our target prices, we feel Union Properties and Emaar represent the most attractive opportunities at the moment in the UAE real estate sector.

Al Mal Dubai Real Estate Price Index

In general, Dubai real estate prices increased at a strong pace in March. However, we have noticed that price appreciation has slowed from the extremely strong pace experienced in January and February of this year. With a year over year price increase of 33.6% in the residential segment and 36.8% in the commercial segment, our expectation for 28% price appreciation for the whole of 2008 may prove to be conservative. However, we expect price momentum to slow in coming months as Dubai enters the seasonally slow summer period.

The survey continues to indicate deterioration in rental yields. However, most of the deterioration can be attributed to relatively flat median rental costs, combined with the underlying price appreciation in the market. Our year end forecast residential rental yield is 6.5%, compared to the current residential rental yield of 7.3%. As with market prices, we expect to see less deterioration of rental yields in the summer months as price appreciation should slow. We expect that most of the move towards our target year end residential yield should happen in the later part of the year.

Upgrading Sorouh Properties to Outperform

We are upgrading our investment recommendation for Sorouh Properties to an Outperform from our previous Market Perform rating. In our view, the recent weakness in the share price represents an attractive entry point for investors. We currently see 30% upside to our target price of AED 11.92.

We have not adjusted our estimates for the company. We expect reported EPS of AED 0.88 for 2008 and AED 1.08 in 2009. We project EBITDA of AED 2.3 billion in 2009 and at current prices the stock is trading at 9.5x EV/EBITDA for 2009E

Upgrading RAK Properties to Market Perform

Owing to the recent weakness in the share price of RAK Properties we have upgraded our investment rating from an Underperform to Market Perform. We feel the valuation has become more attractive over the last few weeks. However, the shares are currently trading at 12.9x our 2009E EV/EBITDA. Therefore, the valuation has become more attractive, but we still feel there is better value in the sector.

Union Properties Still Very Attractive

We reiterate our Outperform ratings on Union Properties and Emaar. Though both have performed relatively well during the recent market correction (-1.1% and -5.8% respectively), the upside remains very attractive for both companies. With nearly 50% upside to our target prices, we feel Union Properties and Emaar represent the most attractive opportunities at the moment in the UAE real estate sector.

We feel Union Properties should offer investors the best potential for a catalyst over the next few months as the company should begin to offer more clarity about its post 2010 strategy. Union Properties' valuation is very attractive, currently trading at 4x 2009E EV/EBITDA. Additionally, we continue to feel that the market has not fully discounted the success of Union Properties' existing projects. Since the company uses the completed project method of accounting, we expect the recently strong sales at the company's developments to be reflected in results for 2009.
